

Lady in Bungay Suffolk

Bungay is a small town in Suffolk, and it had a hospital, All Hallows Hospital. This is a photo of the sign.

A lady in our church had an operation for the removal of breast cancer and was sent to All Hallows to recuperate. The nurses could get 4 feet, well over a metre, of dressing in her wound. Praying for her, God just came. The next day only 4 inches of dressing could be placed into the wound and the nurses were so amazed they fetch the local doctor to see.

Our prayers for healing were answered but also the request that the healing would be a testimony to the staff in the hospital.
