

The Boy with the woolly hat

About to leave Nakuru we were asked to go and pray for a pastor's family where all the children were sick. He had 3 sons and seemed to make to no progress at all praying for the first or second son. Then realised there was a spirit of infirmity on the house and in the family which was rebuked. Once that was dealt with the 2 boys were healed. The third son was in a darkened room as he was photophobic with a high temperature and could not cope with bright light. He had a woolly hat on, not as smart as the one in the picture.

He was prayed for and instantly healed. We had to leave immediately and as we got into the Landrover to drive away the little boy came outside into the bright sunlight and waved us goodbye. He still has his woolly hat on.

The whole family healed.
